Exploring best practice

The Energy Risk Asia conference, now in its eighth year, hosted more than 200 senior energy trading and risk management executives from across the Asia-Pacific to discuss the latest risks, regulations and best practices to navigate today's volatile markets

October 8, 2015

Hilton Orchard Towers, Singapore

Panel debate: Power sector policy reform and developments across Asia (L-R): Jeremy Wilcox, Energy Partnership; K Marcus Chee, Energy Council of Malaysia; Lionel Steinitz, LYS Energy; Eugene Toh, Energy Market Authority

The event attracted 215 professionals from across Asia and beyond

Crude oil prices and impact on corporate hedging panel (L-R): Clement Cheng (Citi), Paul Waine (Platts), Gary Wu (Brightoil Petroleum), Priya Narain Balchandani (Standard Chartered)

Comment to the ETRM systems panel participants: "Managing vendor risk is a major concern for organisations and many prefer to build their own systems," Peter Morrison, head of IT strategy and architecture, BP Singapore

Greg Manning, group treasurer, Qantas Airways, presented on the company's treasury risk management framework

Russell Norton, managing director of Calhan Trading, spoke on the changing risk profile of the LNG market

Clearing, collateral and trade reporting in Asia panel (L-R): Thomas McMahon, UD Trading; Kristiaan Behiels, Noble Group; Chandra Dev Singh, Bharat Petroleum; Jacky Hok, Total Marine Fuels; Lucas Schmeddes, Ice Clear

Keynote speaker Dr Ir Tumiran, board member, National Energy Council of Indonesia, focused on regulation and the need for foreign investment in energy generation assets in the country

Networking in the breaks (L-R): Eric Strongin, frontoffice risk manager, EDF Trading; and European Energy Exchange executives Thomas Schmitz and Viviana Ciancibello

